Crossing the Road

When I am walking around my city, I need to make sure that I am safe.

When I need to cross the road, I need to find a pedestrian crossing.
They look like this →

If I see this crossing, I need to stop, look left and then look right.
Ask myself, have the cars stopped?
If they have, then I can cross the road.

Some pedestrian crossings have buttons that look like this
I can push the button and stay still.

I can cross the road when I see a picture of a green person walking.
It looks like this →

I should not cross the road if I see a red picture like this →

I should push the button and wait for the green picture.
